MAIN EXTENSION POLICY:

The Board of Public Utilities shall install in the City of Jamestown up to 300 feet of water main for each new home/building at BPU expense, providing the building contains 1 to 3 living units.

For developments of all homes or buildings containing four or more living units, the Board of Public Utilities shall install water mains to serve these developments provided the total cost incurred by the Board of Public Utilities shall render a full return on investment within ten years. The return on investment in ten years must also recognize the interest carrying cost during the ten year period as a reduction to the available investment. Any cost for the installation over and above this ten year pay back shall be paid by the developer. To assure the completion of the development, the developer will initially compensate the Board of Public Utilities for the full cost of the project. That portion that has been accepted as the Board of Public Utilities' cost will be pro-rated equally for each living unit and the developer will be refunded the pro-rated portion as each-living unit is occupied.
